A rebranded version of FutureSplash Animator released on December 18, 1996 as Macromedia Flash 1.0. The name "Flash" was created by mixing ... "flash" from "Flashback" (i.e. "flash memory"), and "Macromedia" from "Macromedia Systems, Inc", which is Macromedia's parent company. Macromedia Flash allows the user to create multimedia pages and applications, allowing the rapid development of original animated objects such as characters and scenes. Flash uses standard image formats such as GIF, as well as many other formats, including AVI, MOV, MP4, MP3, and WAV.
