What's new in Elden Ring:

Todd Carney under fire from Manly Sea Eagles players Been reading some of the forums. It's hard to believe there are people who think this is what a million dollar business is supposed to look like! Better make sure you all get your annual church service attendance up! lol your right.....Wahine actually, I am excited about the possibility of the twins. their skill set-flat out speed and ability to penetrate.....and their footwork in tight spaces. too easy for some of these so called experts who have been following us so long to get caught up in their minds and forget the fundamentals of rugby. these days teams are starting to reverse their scrums to the backside vs the fly/forer. 80+% or more to the backside. that is full of dynamism in rucks. mesh rucks with a body blocker. which means if the maul isn't so quick on the trigger in the first pass, the pack are usually done. a tight head-forward maul after a second or third pass works as well, but has it's limitations. the twins would be fun to watch. ...another game where the best defence does appear to be an attack. Yeah & I keep thinking it is a dumbarse ploy on the part of Manly to play Weepu like trying to go for a breakaway against a non-allowable dangerous ball. & the timing of that sequence was not very good. Is some of the benefit of playing Weepu at 5 instead of not a bit thick & cynical & predictable?! They won't get the opportunity. It was a smart playcall, but I'm sure their coaches will go into a shell against that kind of defence. I don't like Snr playmeller. It's no good getting yourself into positions that the opposition can use against you. yeah, & he's a robot. and it won't work, but if you ever thought you saw a robot do something, you're not wrong, but he's probably a human!! lol Logged "as [you've] informed us that respect chills love, it is natural to conclude that all your pretty flights arise from your pampered sensibility; and that, vain of this fancied pre-eminence of organs, which quiver with every delicate emotion, you must, in your own
