A Dragonfly Empire developed in the ancient times was the first society of any civilization to ever discover and cultivate magic, but then, the dragonfly empire was destroyed by a great war, and in their absence, the empire split into many tribes. At the center of many such tribes lay the frontier, the bamboo Forest. The bamboo Forest still stands today. A band of wanderers and enlightenment seekers emerged here from scattered tribes. There are different ways to become an immortal, and to achieve enlightenment. The wanderers first found an ancient, long-since-forgotten culture called the Dragonfly Empire, where they learned the art of cultivating magic. Following this course of life, the wanderers became immortal and achieved enlightenment, and they founded their own society, the Dragonfly Empire. However, the wanderers had all left their descendants behind, and lost their way amidst the bamboo Forest. In their place, the wanderers founded the childless land of the Dragonfly Empire. The frontier, the bamboo Forest, was once covered with a dense forest of bamboo. But over time, tree species began to colonize its area. Now, the bamboo Forest is transformed into a land of a different kind. The wanderers traveled for several thousand years, and they discovered the Great Bamboo Forest... Are you an immortal? I know how to do it with one directory: sed -i '/^Directory:/{s!.Directory: \(.)$!!} /file.txt However I am not able to see how to do this in a series of directories. Brings Fantasy Sim to Gyms Bryce Duxbury has been an avid gamer his whole life. He grew up on video games, where classic games like Super Mario Bros. and Mega Man ruled. As Duxbury grew into a middle schooler and into adulthood, he discovered many of the modern games out there. The problem with the games today, besides lack of creativity, was the difficulty in actually using them recreationally. "The only reason I wanted to play a game is if it had a difficulty setting," Duxbury said. "I just wanted a game to challenge me." And that challenge came to him one day in a Lean Manufacturing class in 2009. Class was over and Duxbury hadn't been able to find his instructor, Tim Bliss. He didn't know which way to move in the building, and was making his way through the maze when a female instructor saw him. She was in front of him, and he could see her immediately. "I ran up to her and said, 'Hey, do you know where Professor Bliss is?' She said, 'Nope. What is your name?' I said, 'My name is Bryce.' She said, 'Well, hey, Bryce.' " "I was already liking it," Duxbury said. "I got in the building, and I didn't meet anyone else. So I'm walking to my desk, and suddenly I hear a voice behind me say 'Bryce.' I turn around and say, 'Yes, hi?' There was a woman that said 'Hi, I'm Erin.' I said, 'Oh, hi Erin.' She said, 'So, do you wanna play a video game?' I said, 'Yeah, that sounds fun.'" Duxbury was intrigued and was on the date with Erin for a Wednesday night. After talking between the two, Duxbury eventually went to his seat, and Erin followed. Duxbury said she wanted to try the new video game to see how hard it was. The game came on and a woman shot down a flying dragon at the same time, somehow doing it non stop. Duxbury quickly left the game and exclaimed, "Oh my God, Erin
