Jobs in San Antonio, TX.Q: google chrome console with java script I am new to chrome console and I am actually getting confused if this is a java script code or not? the code I am talking about is the one in the screenshot. Can anyone explain why we have "Object {}" and "Object" separately? the first object is with proper name and the second one is without name! If this is a java script code, why we can access the property on the first object with bracket? (Please explain a bit more to me if possible. Thanks A: It is a Java script. The reason that you can access the "3" object is because you have a nested object. "Object" is a javascript object. And you are not supposed to modify this object,
