Survarium is a free-roaming sci-fi sandbox MMO on Early Access. You are not bound by levels or experience and can instead choose your own path to becoming one of the elite warriors of the colony. Play how you like! Become the last human survivor in a virtual world where the decisions you make as you progress through the game will determine your fate. Enjoy the cooperative multiplayer battle system together with your friends. Anybody can become a hero - it's your world, you name it! RULES: Survarium is a Free-to-play title, where you will need to purchase additional content and services such as additional weapons, additional character slots, increasing your character name's length, additional decals etc. Do not mention, advertise or ask for any of these services (weapons, decoration and nametag size) in any form outside the game! You can discuss the services in the Off-Topic area of the forums. Features: Survival Mode (Survival, Sandbox, Sandbox 2 Player, Sandbox 3 Player) Survivors will start at the same time, but they need to survive different dangers in the world and to earn money. Survivors can join your games and survive together with you. Respawn is available. Cooperative Multiplayer: As many, or as few players, as you like. You and your friends can join the same game, waiting for players to show up, or start your own game. Yours games are always saved even if you join another game. Spawns are saved to the server to ensure that no one is banned unfairly. You can join any game at any time and there is always a game available for you to join. You can always check the number of active games and their status without leaving your game. Communication modes: GPS voice This

An MC that can't get his thoughts off his mind, even after he tries his hardest. He's tried everything, from seeing a therapist to meditating. But he can't seem to shake his intrusive thoughts or bad memories, until one day someone from his dreams starts talking to him. The next day, he wakes up in a strange place without memory of the previous day. And he can't remember who he is. Nothing but his thoughts of dreams, memories, and his own inner darkness can help him... Who Is This Game For? This game is meant for people who find it hard to just sit back and let life happen without getting involved. Even if you try your hardest to do so, you still find that your mind wanders away and allows bad thoughts and memories to fill your head. This game aims to help you get back on track, and also to help you understand what to do in such a situation. Anxiety disorders, depression, OCD, and other similar conditions. Who Is It For? This game is for anyone who feels like they have made great progress in life and suddenly start to develop intrusive thoughts or memories. Or maybe you simply don't want to be that OCD girl anymore. Keep in mind that even if you are in the latter case, this game is still for you! If you can't contain your thoughts and memories, then you will need help, and this game might be able to help you with that. No matter how chaotic your mind may be, if you feel that your thoughts and memories are too much for you to take, then this game is meant for you. If you are not seeking help, this game is not for you! No game will help you with your thoughts like no one else will. You are the only one who knows what you can handle. There is no right or wrong way to feel.

After all, I'm just a lonely guy trying to make his way through life, but I still have intrusive thoughts, and sometimes good memories that fill my head. And sometimes, those thoughts and memories cause me pain. What Makes This Game Special? Take control of a descendant of a legendary knight that is trying his hardest to cope with his intrusive thoughts. Explore a vast and beautiful world, and many different areas to navigate. Go through hard and tough situations that are sure to break your heart. You can talk to your friends and family about your thoughts by connecting to a Live Distortion Room! Learn what c9d1549cdd has lost a tooth," Kurrelkey said. The family said the whole thing started when the Pit Bull-Golden Retriever mix, Poop, went into a rage. "He didn't want anyone besides me on him," said Annette Kurrelkey, Poop's owner. "He's been mean all day." Kurrelkey said Poop has been fuming at people who try to pet him all day. She said he chases after Ak, an 11-year-old dog who lives in the same complex, and acts like a jerk when people try to pet him. "He acts like he's someone special," Annette Kurrelkey said. "He's not. He's just a mean dog." Poop's owners said Ak wears a purple-and-silver collar that says "I am a K9-protection dog." While the Kurrelkeys' dog has a blue collar with "k-9" on it, Ak has a name tag that reads "protection dog," Ak has additional programs added to his collar because Kurrelkey said he is classified as a "protection dog." Ak's handler, Steve Jensen, has had Ak since he was a puppy. Jensen said he's had years of experience and has trained his German Shepard "one of the best that I know." Jensen said Ak and Poop have been "dogging up" on each other since they got older. When Ak approached Poop, Kurrelkey said he got a little harder on Ak and that's when the dog lunged at him. Jensen said Ak has two scars on his face and one on his nose from where he collided with Kurrelkey. "If we didn't give him incentive, why would he always be doing this," Kurrelkey said. Jensen said Ak has been shown to be aggressive with people before, but it's rare. "Ak was raised in an aggressive household," Jensen said. "He was trained to be aggressive." Annette Kurrelkey said she wants people to be aware that Ak could be dangerous. She said he should have a muzzle when he's around people. Jensen said Ak is not aggressive in his home environment, in the car or on leash in the home. Jensen said Ak's training includes the usual toilet training and would cover gun, knife and escalation methods to protect the family

Play a vast open world and turn every building in a city into an epic adventure. "The City" has a vertical cityscape that stretches from the skyscrapers of the downtown to the lush open countryside. Explore the entire city in any of 20+ unique stories, and help the citizens restore their community. At every point, use your abilities to turn the buildings around you into new gameplay mechanics. Can you enter the roof of the tallest building, and use it as a miniature spaceship for people to enter? Join the citizens of "The City" as they battle to save each other, and the buildings around them.

Q: Why does an object's hashCode() equal itself? Why does the hashCode() method of a HashMap return the same value for every object within the Map?

HashMap map = new HashMap(); map.put("a", "b"); System.out.println("a " + map.get("a") + " b " + map.get("b")); System.out.println("a " + map.hashCode() + " b " + map.hashCode());

a b b a 100249832 b 100249832
If I added a new value with a different hashCode() to the map why would I expect that both values would be different? A: 1) Maps are kept sorted using the natural order of the objects of the map, which is a stable sorting algorithm. The natural order for String is to compare the first character, and this is also the order in which the put method of the Map should be used. 2) A hashmap only needs to implement a consistent and stable algorithm. 3) The size of the hashmap is measured by the number of buckets, so no entry should have two equal hashcodes for hash map to stay consistent.

Q: What's the right word to say that you hate the religious major? I'm wondering what would be a good word to say that you hate a particular religious major or school of thought? I've seen some slang word, but it doesn't seem right to me. Any ideas?

A: Wikipedia has several options: hate: dislike, dislike intensely, disliking (someone or something) adj
