Q: Is there a reference to Primus Confutatis in Aquinas' Summa Theologica? Aquinas says in ST I-II, q. 25, a. 3, d. 3: "The last judgment - called ultimate - is that which will decide nothing further than it was already decided by the first and general judgment." Is there a reference to this in Aquinas' Summa Theologica? A: In Aquinas's commentaries on Aristotle and on the Bible there is a reference to the question of whether human beings ultimately are just or unjust. See ST I-II q. 25, a. 3. d. 5. The answer is that it is an unjust act to accuse an innocent person of homicide, although it is not unjust to accuse a wicked person of homicide. See Aquinas Commentary on Aristotle's Topics I-II (Lib. VII-VIII) (Bertolacci translation). Forum on Bioethics and Psychiatry The Forum on Bioethics and Psychiatry was established by the World Psychiatric Association (WPA), and cosponsored by the World Medical Association (WMA) at their General Assembly in Helsinki, Finland, on November 15-19, 1998. The Forum was envisioned as an outgrowth of a series of WMA working-group meetings on ethical aspects of psychiatric practice which were held under the leadership of the WMA in Helsinki in April 1996. In a similar vein to other ethical forum efforts to enhance the knowledge base in psychiatry, the Forum hoped to foster dialogue between the World Psychiatric Association. The American Psychiatric Association, and the European Psychiatric Association. The Forum would discuss "how scientific and technological advances affect the ethical issues in psychiatry". The initial focus of the conference was to identify broad issues and the specific needs for future study by the WMA on the ethical aspects of advancing psychiatry. The scope was broad, with topics such as bioethics and psychiatry, education in psychiatry, advance directives, informed consent, laws and regulations in psychiatry, and the role of the psychiatrist in clinical trials. WPA President Anton Naberhaus was chair of the Forum, and other key players included: John Yudkin, founder of the Campaign for Real Food; Robert Stein, director of the Institute for Human Research at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center; Gerald Schatten, medical director for bioethics at the University of Virginia; Jerome Kassirer d0c515b9f4

Malia Wale Sanskar Ek Kya Tu.Toronto FC hope that Jonathan Osorio will have more chances to score this season, after the club parted ways with one of its record-setting goal scorers. TFC dealt Laurent Ciman, its highest paid player last season, to the Montreal Impact on Wednesday in exchange for the veteran defender Justin Morrow. Osorio was TFC's leading scorer last season with 16 goals, just one behind teammate Michael Bradley. But the 25-year-old midfielder — who already has three MLS Cup championships in his career — was bound for a well-earned rest. "I think he's a very valuable piece to the team's success," TFC head coach Greg Vanney told reporters on a conference call. "His contribution has been very significant — in part because of his versatility and how good he is at passing the ball, but also because he's found a way to score goals and that has helped bring other guys into play." Osorio's signing marked a new era for TFC. A team with a reputation for developing homegrown players and creating dynamic, attacking soccer that has a chance to contend for a championship has added a few new faces to its roster in 2018. Osorio becomes the latest in a lineup that already includes an in
