Vehicles, especially automobiles, are routinely provided with one or more storage compartments for storing a variety of items such as maps, books, food and beverages, electrical equipment, and the like. It is not uncommon for the contents of such a compartment to be spilled or otherwise removed therefrom in an attempt to access other items stored in the compartment. For example, a so-called "toolbox" containing numerous tools is often stored in a vehicle, and the need to access such tools at a later time may cause an item to be removed from the toolbox or otherwise spilled. It is therefore desirable to provide an improved storage arrangement for storing items in a vehicle. It is further desirable to provide such a storage arrangement which will inhibit an item stored therein from being spilled or otherwise removed therefrom. It is still further desirable to provide such an arrangement which is relatively compact and light in weight and does not significantly increase the overall size of the vehicle. Daily Archives: September 11, 2015 First, the saints heard God's music in the wedding at Cana. Surely He will hear our music, too, through the instruments that He has placed inside each of us. These instruments allow us to play, sing, and worship – through them we demonstrate to the world our allegiance to Him. Second, when Jesus returned home, He did not find a feast prepared. For God's people, the Lord's Table is where we can be in communion with Him. He is here. He has come. Third, when the bridegroom left the wedding, He did not return empty-handed. For our Lord is the bread from heaven. As He will no doubt grant us more in all that is good, we, too, must be changed: we must become new; we must live the life of the Kingdom. Finally, after the wedding feast, Jesus sent His servant to the bridegroom's home to tell the bride that Jesus wants to come in. But the servants who returned said, "The groom has just now gone to the city to purchase." They are the best of their species; they are the worst of their species. They have no emotion, and are barely aware of their surroundings. That, in short, is New York FC. They are well on their way to winning the Supporters' Shield, and already in the midst of a semi-final contest with a team
