Armed Industrial Modular Ensemble The Armed Industrial Modular Ensemble (AIME), also known as the Mobile Armoured Infantry Company, is a special armed police unit of the Hong Kong Police Force. History The unit was created in 1977 in the wake of the 1976 Three-step policy and is intended to complement the existing standard police unit. The unit was first used on 18 December 1980 in Tsuen Wan, and was succeeded by the Mobile Crisis Response Team (MCRT). In 1983, the unit took part in Operation Canton. The AIME was disbanded in 1992, and was replaced by the Mobile Task Force (MTF). Annexation The United States Department of State, in a document dated 8 October 2016, stated the US Government believes that Hong Kong is "restoring the accountability and transparency of the decision-making process and strengthening its commitment to the Sino-British Joint Declaration." The document urged China and Hong Kong authorities to address "issues related to the promotion of political freedom and open transparent government."
