A: From what I've been able to find, the "LGW 6.5.76" and the "HUAWEI HG530" firmware are compatible with each other. However, there are small firmware updates that are required by the HG530. Some of these steps do involve opening the router's settings, and to actually change the firmware, but it is possible. I will try to document them as much as possible below. I tried the HG530 firmware for the LGW 6.5.76, using a tiny wireless adapter. Steps Navigate to the "Downloads" tab Search for "TinyAccess" Click "Download" Select the XS Power (LGW 6.5.76 firmware) file, according to the firmware that is currently installed in your computer. Click "Continue" Click "Run" When the screen says "Updated.bin files need to be reinstalled" click "Install" and wait for the installation to complete. When it is done, you should have new firmware that must be installed. If you don't want to do the above, you can search for the HG530 firmware for LGW 6.5.76 on Google, and find the smallest file that you can install. It will be the firmware update for the HG530. -- Once the HG530 firmware has been installed, the LGW 6.5.76 firmware will be automatically installed. You can click "Options" in the LGW 6.5.76, in "Setup Software

Updates" to access the HG530 firmware. -- You will have to reinstall "System Tools" afterwards. In the HG530 "Setup System Tools" screen, scroll down to "System Tools" and click "Reinstall" In the "Reinstall" screen, scroll down to "Reinstall System Tools" and click "Yes" You should now be done. If you have questions, feel free to ask. I did not include any information about connecting to the HG530 with a laptop, but I am sure someone else can fill you in. -abdominal pregnancy was reported (1.5%), which is high in comparison with previously published data. This could be explained by either the inherent higher risk of VVF when compared to arterial access or by lower rates of patients undergoing elective OOP and therefore being at an increased risk. The
