FOREST CITY, Ind. – An Indiana woman has been charged in connection with a fatal plane crash at Indianapolis International Airport. According to the Indianapolis Star, the Marion County grand jury on Monday charged the mother of the student pilot with reckless homicide and criminal negligence. News outlets report that the plane crashed on the runway at the airport Sunday afternoon. The student pilot’s mother told police her son had complained of feeling ill Sunday morning and had been having trouble sleeping. She told authorities she had found notes on her son’s phone that suggested he was struggling with adjusting to midlife, according to the Star. The crash killed the student pilot and injured two people. A pilot and a student instructor were hospitalized, according to Indianapolis ABC affiliate WRTV. Capt. Holly Riddle, director of ICAO at the Indianapolis Metropolitan Airport Authority, told the Star that “from the preliminary investigation, it appears that the aircraft lost altitude and hit the ground.” the network. Arguably, this should be a huge deal, and as a consequence, it should have been a huge deal four years ago. Admittedly, the controversy seems to be focusing more on Netscape, Tim and folks than on Mozilla, however, it is still Netscape’s choice that to the degree that it chooses, it is Mozilla’s choice. While I was at the conference, I was struck by the different opinions on the issue. The audience that I spoke with and the folks that I chatted with in the press room looked more supportive of WebObjects than Mozilla. At first, I thought that I would get a response from Netscape that this is what Netscape had
